

Frank Mann

Metro Atlanta YMCA

2009 Volunteer of the Year

Earliest Time: “My first involvement really began in the Y’s father-child program with Indian Princesses and then Indian Guides. We were living in Chicago at the time. We got deeply involved with the program there and had a wonderful experience.”

All About Others: “The Y has a very contagious focus about serving the community. Everyone pulls together to help others. The Y has a very vital role in the community, and it makes me feel good to know in some small way I am helping. I am proud to say I am a member of the Metro Atlanta YMCA board.”

True Leader: Frank has been a pioneer throughout the association’s largest expansion including planning and development of four new family YMCAs, four expansions, four renovations, and one new Head Start Center. He has served 10 years on the Metro board, is chairman of the real estate and properties committee, serves on strategic planning committee and was a past executive committee member.

Community Involvement: American Cancer Society, past board chairman of Make a Wish Foundation, director’s circle at the High Museum, Woodruff Arts Center Young Audiences board member, Corenet, a commercial real estate organization.

Career: Senior Director at Cushman & Wakefield of Georgia, Inc.

Wife: Julie

Children: Two daughters and one son
